

Marianne Gothlin

Swedish teacher and certificate trainer in NVC. Since 1990 she has been working in the educational field with children and teenagers, teachers, parents and leadership teams using the NVC process to promote democracy and empathy based relationships in schools.

Cristina Buongiorno

Expert in Nonviolent Communication, she started her training in 2007 in Italy and abroad. She deals with training and conflict mediation. She passionately teaches NVC because she is convinced that by changing the way we communicate and relate to others we can determine a change in the world: so that the values of reciprocity, respect and peace could be really shared by human beings.

Meri Ciuti

Social and school mediator, she graduated in Science for Peace; trainer in projects about conflict management through NVC and about education to peace designed for students, teachers and parents. Since 2005 she has been practicing NVC in her life, bringing this approach in several fields and working as a facilitator in self guided practice groups. She has been following Marianne since 2008.

Mutual Education

Living Nonviolent Communication in learning communities

FIRST SEMINAR

April 25 - 29 2018

Convento di Celleno - Viterbo - Italy

SECOND SEMINAR

July 22- 29 2018

One week of training and vacation hosted by the Convento dei Padri Passionisti,
Monte Argentario - Grosseto - Italy

This 8 day-program is designed for people interested in applying NVC (Non-violent Communication) values in education. We will practise creating learning communities that cultivate mutual respect, cooperation, compassionate interactions and engaged learning. Come and share, learn, contribute to a community of parents, teachers, educators, counsellors practitioners and trainers!

In the two seminars we will practise to be a role model for clear communication - one of our most important life skills. Learning to listen, learning to speak up for what you need and want, making clear requests, verbalise your dreams, learning from your mistakes without losing self-respect... all helpful skills when forming a life-enriching learning atmosphere and guiding basic democracy.

As a participant, you will join a team of experienced trainers dedicated to cultivating NVC in the field of education.

Vision for NVC in Education:

To support youth in developing the understanding and skills necessary to be wise members of a global community and co-creators of a peaceful, just and sustainable world.

Some themes that we will attend to:

- Deepen the understanding of what Marshall Rosenberg called “mutual education.”
- Co-create a safe and supportive learning environment
- Making and breaking rules with care
- Balance between clear leadership and taking children’s point of view into account
- Resolve conflicts and prevent or de-escalate violence
- Daily life mediation with young people
- Support children to be motivated by their eagerness to learn
- Learn from experiences of NVC projects in schools – key factors and conditions for sustainability.
